Scope
To develop a small, open-source, autonomous underwater vehicle with the ability to record and track marine life while minimizing disturbance to its environment and organisms under observation.